NAZIS RENEW MASS ATTACKS ON ENGLAND

Daylight Raids Resumed After Bad Weather Hampers Night Flights.

By The Associated Press
Hitler's warplanes resumed daylight raids on England today after heavy rains had broken up some of the German night attacks, giving London one of its quietest nights since early September.

Other fronts were ominously quiet. In the Balkans, Russia and Germany continued to mass troops along each other across the Danube river delta in Rumania. In the Far East, Britain attacked the reopening of the Burma road at midnight tonight (11:30 p. m. Marion time)—and reports of Japanese bombers were reported poised to attack the flow of traffic to China along the air route once followed by Marco Polo.

Despite bad weather conditions, British RAF bombers pounded the German naval bases at Kiel, Hamburg and Cuxhaven during the night, the London air ministry reported. "Extensive fires were caused," the ministry said, adding that RAF squadrons attacked a synthetic oil plant at Leuna and scored direct hits on ammunition factories in Saxony.

Today's "invasion weather" meant mist over Strait of Dover this morning; visibility good, sea choppy.

The Germans reported the first daylight raiders penetrated to London at 9:50 a. m., but Londoners said that no bombs were heard in the first two alarms and that the Nazi warplanes, attacking in large numbers, were hurried back three times from the capital.

Rain Hampers Efforts
Struck by rain, anti-aircraft and RAF defense fighters in the night, the Nazi raiders found it difficult to maintain a steady stream of attacks on the western and southern coasts of England. Dozens of bombs crashed in the shopping district of a southeast town, wounding 10 persons and demolishing several buildings.

About 16 London districts reported damage in the night assaults, but the British said the damage was comparatively light. By contrast, Hitler's high command asserted that so-called "retaliatory" attacks were "in full force."

"Until dawn," the German communiqué said, "bombs of all calibers were dropped on military objectives of both sides of the Thames. The resulting fires lighted up for a great distance the clouds over London."

So fierce has been the destruction that London political quarters have been considering the removal of all persons not engaged in essential occupations from the capital districts most endangered by Nazi bombs.

Already, the government disclosed 876 mothers and 1,659 children have been removed from the residential suburb of Croydon, one of Britain's greatest air-raid centers in the past three weeks.

There were some deaths and injuries in a few London districts during the night where dwellings were demolished and "only a few industrial buildings" affected but generally, the government reported, casualties and damage were light.

While London was the chief target of the raiders, the Liverpool shipping and ship-building area along the Mersey river also was attacked as well as an unpopulated town in the Midlands.

Germans in Berlin told of several hundred planes taking off for London during the night but a British air ministry spokesman said they must have got lost en route because they did not show up.

The British situation in the Orient was pointed up by the scheduled reopening of the road from Burma to Chungking, the British crown colony of Hongkong. China's eastern seaboard, if Germany's military equipment in China were resumed through that port.

MARION O. N. G. HIGH IN EXAMS

Only 10 Out of 107 Fail To Pass Rigid Army Physical Tests.

Men of Co. D and Headquarters Detachment, 106th Infantry, won the praise of army doctors yesterday when they took the rigid U. S. army physical examination at the Mansfield Armory.

Co. D lost only eight out of 94 men and Headquarters Detachment two out of 13.

The average loss, 8 1/2 per cent, is unusually low, officers said this morning, the loss average generally running to from 15 to 20 per cent.

The examination took six privates and two privates, first class, from Co. D, and a technical sergeant and private from Headquarters Detachment.

Army doctors told officers yesterday that the Marion units were "a good bunch of men, the best we've examined yet." The examinations at Mansfield started Monday and were to end today, including units from Gallion, Ashland, Wooster and Mansfield in addition to Marion.

Causes of Rejections
The examining dentist was especially pleased, only one man out of the entire Marion group failing to pass because of his teeth. Reasons for other rejections among the Marion men included bad heart, weak back, crooked arm, flat feet, abdominal ailment, and faulty vision.

Five U. S. army doctors and 10 physicians from the regular medical corps conducted the examinations, which started at 10:55 a. m. and ended at 4 p. m. Heart, eye, ear, and teeth examinations were by army specialists.

"We were not exactly solemn," said one of the doctors.

MAN FACES CHARGE OF WHITE SLAVERY

Accused by Girl After Raid on Kenton Ave. House.

A white slavery charge was filed yesterday against a Mansfield man here yesterday following a three-day investigation started when a Cleveland girl told officials she had been brought to Marion under false pretenses and forced to work in a house of ill-fame.

Disorderly conduct charges also were filed yesterday against four women arrested early Monday when police raided a house at 689 Kenton avenue in connection with the case.

Walter Hord Wins County Shock Corn Husking Title

BULLETIN
Walter Hord this morning won the senior division in the shock corn contest, receiving credit for 878.2 pounds. The standing corn contest was to follow immediately.

Working in crisp fall air, Marion county "bangboard experts" today battled on the Earl Drake farm northwest of Agosta for the county's corn husking championships and the right to compete in the state events Oct. 23-24.

About 150 persons were on hand when the two shock contests, for adults and younger men, started this morning and a larger crowd was forecast for this afternoon when the standing corn event was scheduled. Interest usually centers in the standing event.

A "campaign" atmosphere surrounded today's events. Nearby roads were lined with placards of candidates and the candidates themselves were very much in evidence, pursuing votes for Nov. 5.

2 Contestants
Only two contestants vied for the shock championship, starting at 10:10 and competing 80 minutes. They were Walter Hord, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Hord of near Marion, who won last year; and Donald Steen, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Steen of Morral, who won the junior title last year.

Hord was tossing about 30 ears a minute to start with and Steen about 24. At the end of an hour both were on their fourth shock and Hord was tossing at the same rate, with the sweat pouring from his face, and Steen, a lighter man, was working at about 25 a minute.

5 In Junior Contest
There were six entries in the junior shock contest, including a 15-year-old girl, Verian Harriman, sophomore at Morral High school and daughter of Mrs. Cuba Harriman of near Morral. She attracted the attention of most of the spectators and gave them a good show, turning out the cleanest ears of the contest.

Other entries: William Clunk, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Clunk of Green Camp; completed last year, tossing about 23 ears a minute at the start. He appeared to be one of the better contestants at the beginning. He used a husking peg.

Cecil Matix, 17, of Meeker, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Matix; tossing 18 a minute and using a peg.

LeRoy Schaber, 16, of Agosta, son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Schaber. He used a hook and was tossing 21 a minute.

David Pugh, of Kirkpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Pugh; tossing 17 a minute with a husking peg.

Ludwig Nickel, 17, of Caledonia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nickel; tossing 19 a minute.

45-Minute Contest
The junior contest got under way at 10:50 and continued for 45 minutes.

Miss Harriman, whose first experience in contest husking came recently at the Morral fair where she won the women's division by husking 100 pounds in 10 minutes, picked up the art on the farm. She and her mother and sister have been running it since the death of Mr. Harriman.

To win her way to the county contest, she defeated all the boys in the Morral vocational agriculture class in a husking trial. She husked 342 1/2 pounds of clean corn in 45 minutes, her nearest rival having only 310.

The girl, wearing a blue smock and white blouse, uses a style much different than the usual husker.

In the shock contests for juniors the shocks are broken up and laid on the ground in a circle. Most contestants assume a kneeling or stooping position and go around the circle, husking one after the other.

Uses Bare Hands
Miss Harriman, using her bare hands, kneels in the center of the circle and goes to work. She was husking about 16 ears a minute at the first of the contest.

Ludwig Nickel also used an unusual style. He piled his corn in one heap and stood at one side to do his husking.

The huskers are scored by a rather complicated method. The total amount husked is obtained first. Then three times the amount of the corn overlooked is deducted. The husker is allowed to have five ounces of husk on his corn for every 100 pounds husked. For every ounce of husk over five and less than nine, one per cent of his total is deducted. For every ounce over nine, three per cent for each ounce is deducted.

WINS JUNIOR HUSKING EVENT NEAR CALEDONIA
Special to The Star

CALEDONIA, Oct. 17.—Ludwig Nickel won the shocked corn husking contest staged by eight members of the Caledonia Future Farmers of America yesterday at the S. N. Fields farm one and one-half miles south of here. He husked 239 pounds of corn in 45 minutes. Paul Mitchell, who husked 160 pounds in the same period, won second honors. The winner was to compete in the junior division of the county corn husking contest today.

LEADERS DETERMINED TO STAY IN LONDON
By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The British government has no intention of leaving London despite recent heavy bombings, it was made known in parliamentary circles today.

The correspondent in the house of commons lobby for Reuters, authoritative British news agency, wrote tonight that "there is no question of the government leaving London."

"On the contrary," he wrote, "they intend to stay here." The correspondent gave no reason for reiteration of what has been understood to be the established government policy since the start of the war.

Marion's Community Fund campaign, scheduled for Oct. 23-24, moved forward another step today as Elmer J. Schoenlaub, chairman of the initial gifts division, announced his committeemen and various supplies began to arrive.

Assisting Mr. Schoenlaub will be Carl E. Danner, Harold J. Grigsby, J. E. Oliphant, A. W. Kette, Robert E. White, E. J. Pierce, C. E. Schriber, R. C. Owens, J. J. Stafford, M. L. McDaniel, O. E. Kennedy, Fred E. Guthery, E. G. Siefert and J. C. Woods.

Mr. Schoenlaub's committee held its first meeting yesterday noon at Hotel Marion and started to work immediately. Approximately 40 men serving on the commercial and professional group met this noon at Hotel Marion to hear their work outlined by Homer Waddell, J. D. Torrance, co-chairmen, were in charge.

The industrial division will meet tomorrow noon at the Harding hotel and the women's division tomorrow at 2:30 will hold a business session and tea at the Harding.

WILLKIE LAYS LACK OF WORK TO NEW DEAL

Declares More Unemployment Is Administration's Only Promise.

By The Associated Press
ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN ENROUTE TO ST. LOUIS, Oct. 17.—Wendell L. Willkie charged today that the New Deal had made a "frank and shameless promise" of more unemployment and added that "our promise is more jobs."

"America must choose between these two promises," the Republican presidential nominee said in a speech prepared for a rally at Evansville, Ind.

"The young people of America must choose between a party that promises them a career on the relief rolls and a party that promises them jobs."

His statements were made as he started a heavy day of campaigning in Indiana, Illinois and Missouri following a speech at Cincinnati last night on his relief views. Arguing that the New Deal had helped create a "slavery of idleness," he advocated five changes in the WPA program:

1. Greater emphasis on public works projects under private contractors.
2. Placing WPA personnel on the merit system, and allocating relief funds to the states in accordance with the amount of unemployment.
3. Treating men and women on work relief "not as a class apart, but as employees of the government."
4. Inviting labor and other groups, including the A.F.L. and C.I.O. to help set up a national training or apprenticeship program.
5. Coordinating relief efforts of federal, state and local agencies by congressional action, along with establishing a research department to study relief in operation.

14,000 Hear Talk
His voice slightly hoarse and occasionally breaking, Willkie spoke at Croydon field, home of the world champion Cincinnati Reds, to an applauding crowd estimated by Police Chief E. G. Weatherly at 14,000. A cold white moon shone down, but Willkie shunned a topcoat. When he finished talking, he jumped on top of the reading stand to wave goodbye.

Both his Cincinnati and Evansville speeches contained an argument that the Roosevelt administration did not believe unemployment could be cured.

"The New Deal tells us that we have nothing to look forward to as a nation but endless unemployment, growing dependence upon the state," his Evansville text said.

"Obviously, no administration (Turn to WILLKIE, Page 11)

Noted Political Forecaster Picks Willkie To Win

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Emil Hurja, who as a Democratic analyst forecast the election of President Roosevelt in 1932 and his re-election in 1936, predicted yesterday the election of Wendell L. Willkie by a plurality of from 1,500,000 to 3,000,000 votes.

"So great is the defection among 1930 Roosevelt voters in urban areas," Hurja said, "that if it continues, the present campaign may take on the proportions of a landslide."

Hurja, executive director of the Democratic national committee from 1932 to 1936, now is publisher of Pathfinder magazine. His prediction before a Republican meeting, he said, was based on an "idealized cross section poll" taken over the nation within the last 10 days.

Hurja spoke before the newly organized citizens' information committee.

Community Fund Initial Gifts Workers Named

Last year approximately 5,300 persons contributed to the fund. Also on order are about 200 window cards and 11 large bill board signs. They are expected to bear the campaign slogan of "Good Neighbors Build America."

J. E. Oliphant, general chairman, announced today that the theme of the campaign will be "100 per cent." Instead of the usual 100 per cent. The need for 10 per cent boosts in the gifts of all persons is fairly obvious. The goal of $31,000 this year is about $1,200 more than was actually raised last year and a number of last year's givers have moved from the city or died.

A supply of 12,000 small red feathers which will be given to all contributors came in yesterday.

SHE'S HEROINE

For risking her life to save others during a raid, 19-year-old Sonia Vera Carlyle Straw has been given the newly-created George Cross, which is awarded for deeds of gallantry by civilians under fire. It corresponds to the Victoria Cross. Miss Straw is shown in her post as "spotter." She watches for the first sign of German air raids. (International News Photo)

13,476 LISTED IN 5 COUNTIES

Draft Registration Reported for Marion's Neighboring Communities.

A total of 13,476 men were registered yesterday for possible military training under the draft law in the five counties adjoining Marion county, news reports show.

Following are the totals by counties: Crawford, 3,005; Morrow, 1,407; Union, 2,084; Hardin, 3,107; Delaware, 2,703.

HARDIN COUNTY

KENTON, Oct. 17.—A Kenton woman registered two of her sons for possible service under the national defense military training program yesterday when Hardin county registered 3,107 young men.

Mrs. Cary Shomer, a member of a precinct election board in Kenton, took the registrations of her sons Willis, 27, and Ray, 25. Willis is an insurance salesman at Bucyrus and Ray is a newspaper linotype operator at Kenton.

Hardin county registrations were nearly 100 lower than the previous estimate of 3,200. Registrations for communities in the county follow: Kenton, 803; Ada, 376; Alger, 101; Dunkirk, 84; Forest, 98; McGuffey, 126; Mt. Victory, 50; portion of Ridgeway in Hardin county, 20.

DELAWARE COUNTY

DELAWARE, Oct. 17.—A total of 2,703 men registered for the draft in Delaware county yesterday, approximately 1,300 under advance estimates made by state draft officials. Local officials expressed the opinion that the difference between the number of registrants and the previous estimate, perhaps because comparatively few Ohio Wesleyan university students are in the age group from 21 to 35.

At a special registration booth provided on the university campus there were 184 registrations, including students and professors.

UNION COUNTY

MARYSVILLE, Oct. 17.—Union county draft registrations yesterday totaled 2,084, approximately 400 under the number expected.

In Marysville 473 young men registered and in Richwood there were 165. A total of 56 registered in the portion of Plain City which is in Union county, 35 were listed in Magnetic Springs and 87 at Milford Center. Only a part at Milford Center. (Turn to DISTRICT, Page 11)

Work Begun By Marion County's 3 Draft Boards

Sorting of Names in Yesterday's Registration Is First Task.

Marion county's three draft boards swung into action today, starting their first task of sorting out the 5,089 cards of young men who registered for the draft yesterday.

All the boards, one for Wards 1, 2 and 3, one for Wards 4, 5 and 6 and one for the rural areas of the county, have organized and selected office quarters. Two have employed clerks and the third will do so shortly.

Representatives of all three boards were at a statewide meeting of draft board members at Columbus yesterday, when final instructions were issued.

Rural Board Gets Cards
The rural board was the first to call for its registration cards at the board of elections office this morning, when Dan L. LaMarche of Marion township, chairman, came after the large steel box filled with the little white pieces of paper.

He and other members of the rural board immediately started sorting out the cards at their offices in the post office basement. Dwight W. Mahaffey of Morral is secretary of the board and Mrs. J. Earl Adams of East Pleasant street has been employed as clerk. Other members of the board are W. Hoover Brown of Mt. Vernon avenue, Edwin K. Powell of Prospect and Dr. W. A. Hoopes of near LaRue.

The board for Wards 1, 2 and 3, which has the largest registration total, appeared en masse at the board of elections office for its supplies and carried them off to the post office basement to begin sorting.

Thomas E. Andrews, chairman, reported a clerk had not been employed yet. Elmer B. Bondley is secretary of the board and other members are Walter C. Bailey, Henry P. Drake and Fred G. Patton.

Third Board Organizes

The third board, serving in Wards 4, 5 and 6, has established offices on the third floor of the Marion-Reserve Power Co. building on South Main street. The bulletin board for posting registration cards and other information for registrants will be in the lobby of the first floor of the building just north of the power company's offices.

The board has hired Mrs. Mary Carey of 342 South State street as clerk. She formerly was at the office of the deputy registrar of motor vehicles in Marion. Her job already has started.

The board plans to rotate its officers every 90 days or so to equalize the work among all the boards.

WALLACE TO SPEAK AT KENTON FRIDAY

Democratic Vice Presidential Candidate on Ohio Tour.

Special to The Star
KENTON, O., Oct. 17.—Hardin county completed arrangements today to welcome Henry A. Wallace, Democratic nominee for vice president and former secretary of agriculture, at a fish fry in Kenton Friday night.

Friday's event, scheduled as a benefit event to raise funds for the high school band, will take on the aspects of a districtwide Democratic rally shortly after the fish supper is served. Food will be served late in the afternoon and early in the evening, with a series of Democratic talks scheduled to start about 6:30.

Wallace is expected to begin speaking between 8 and 8:30 after making curbside stops at Urban and Bellefontaine. His talk is expected to be his only major agricultural address in Ohio in the campaign.

Maurice A. McMahon, Kenton Democratic leader and chairman of the arrangements committee, said the highway patrol will handle traffic. A. C. Johnston, Kenton banker, will be master of ceremonies at a reception for Mr. Wallace just before the speech.

Wallace Calls for Job Insurance Boost

By The Associated Press
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17.—Henry A. Wallace, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, carried his campaign into West Virginia today after telling a Pittsburgh audience the unemployment insurance system "will have to be made more generous."

His itinerary called for stops and brief speeches at Wheeling and other Ohio river communities during the day, followed by a formal address at Parkersburg, W. Va., tonight.

State's Total of Around Million Well Above Early Forecasts.

Falling considerably below the estimate of 8,740 made by state draft officials, 5,089 young men in Marion county yesterday registered for a possible call to a year's military training.

Reason for the failure of registrations to reach the estimated 15 per cent of the county's population by a margin of 1,651 was not apparent to election officials who handled the enrollment here yesterday with swiftness and dispatch.

The registration totals also presented other situations rather mystifying to officials. For instance, there is apparently a shortage of eligible young men in the east and southeast parts of the city, while the north, northwest and southwest is literally overrun with them.

Localities Vary
However, in many sections of the county registrations ran below estimates, and in others were above, according to preliminary reports.

In Ohio as a whole, the 336 local draft districts were expected to have a total registration of possibly a million men, 150,000 more than expected.

In the nation 18,000,000 or more registered yesterday. Frequent reports came that "registrations exceeded advance estimates."

Good humored and even gay for the most part, the young men of America from 21 through 35 literally rushed to registration places. The Associated Press reported, they jostled each other and the army in which they may serve, patiently awaiting their turn for the nation's new adventure in peacetime conscription.

They Know What They Want

THE United States is going to raise a conscription army in peacetime. Starting yesterday with registration of men between 21 and 35 inclusive, this country has ceased to depend on volunteers for national defense.

This is a momentous decision made in momentous times. It marks America's involuntary surrender to European militarism. No one has any reason to be happy about conscription. It is like living in quarantine to avert disease.

But one thing about it lifts the curse in the United States. The men who will be called for military training—all the men who are subject to conscription—know what they want. And it is not militarism. It is defense against militarism.

There is no disposition in the United States to exalt military force. This country has no dream of conquest. It has no blood lust. Its leaders are not tempted to become marionettes. America's mental processes aren't geared to the thud of marching feet.

The thing that makes conscription tolerable after so many years of complete independence from the state is the belief it is the only way to make the world's potentially strongest nation so strong that it will stand as a bulwark against military states which have challenged its right to exist, except as an imitator of their own various brands of despotism. Americans do not want to fight, but they are not going to run away from a challenge to defend the right to live as free men.

The consequences of the thing being done to protect the society they and their forefathers have built from the spotters will be far-reaching. Conscription at its best is bad. It will be unpleasant, it will be costly, it will seem to many to be intolerable. All these disadvantages must be weighed against the probable disadvantages of appeasement and neglect; the United States chose not to wait to see what those disadvantages might be.

"Smearing"

DEMOCRATIC National Chairman Edward J. Flynn can recognize an egg when it's laid in his lap. The "smear" sheet against Wendell L. Willkie put out by the Colored Division of the Democratic National Committee because of the Republican candidate's German ancestry has been promptly and properly repudiated by the committee's chairman. In a left-handed way, a notable triumph for clean politics has been scored.

Once upon a time "smearing" was as much a part of national campaigns as oratory. The diodes cut by old liners make the antics of even the most effervescent moderns look like parlor games. National chairmen wouldn't have apologized 50 years ago. While some of today's earnest campaigners aren't above doing a little "smearing" on the sly, most of them are smart enough to dread the consequences now, however.

The voting public has been educated past the point where stooping to conquer can fool it any more. The usual reaction to a politician stooping for a handful of mud is to plant a kick where it will do the most good. That explains why Chairman Flynn has wasted no time straightening up and apologizing for a set of suspicious circumstances.

Negroes, the ones supposed to be influenced by the scurrilous matter issued against Mr. Willkie, have access to the facts. Their leaders know that the Republican candidate has befriended the Negro race in many instances, notably in his fight against the Ku Klux Klan in Ohio. They know, too, that "smearing" is an act of desperation in politics, prompted by lack of ability to argue the genuine issues of a campaign convincingly. Mr. Flynn knows that they know it and has acted accordingly.

But Can Germany Lose?

ON Oct. 15, an entire month after the deadline set for Germany's invasion of Great Britain in 1940, London experienced its worst air raid—a night of horror followed by a day of recurrent raids reaching a climax when raiders used machine guns on pedestrians.

The comforting habit of sighing with relief because Germany was unable to invade Great Britain on schedule and to assume that Germany, therefore cannot win is silly in the light of developments like this. How can Germany lose, as long as it retains air bases within a few minutes' flying time of the heart of the British empire? Nazi airmen literally can batter not only London but every other important British city to pieces. It is as though they were holding Great Britain for ransom. However successful retaliatory British air raids may be, it is Germany which holds the insuperable advantage by virtue of its position on the channel coast.

Germany can't win, but Germany can't lose until something happens to keep it from losing its fiercest air raid on London a month after the turning point in the Battle of Britain. What that something may be has not been revealed as the war goes into its second winter.

News Behind the News

Hitler Ring in U. S. May Be Ousted as Result of Dies Discoveries.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—A Hitler spy and saboteur center may be torn out by the roots and jailed or expelled as a result of the most recent evidence the Dies committee investigators have dug up.

A net of legal proof involving 50 or more persons in unclarified mysterious activities—the first legal proof that has yet been obtained—will probably be spread upon the committee record in a closed or open session within a few days.

Basic for action is the Zapp correspondence seized from the files of the Nazi agent, Manfred Zapp, masquerading as a German newspaperman, substance of which has been published in this column the past two days. Every word of the correspondence is being sifted by the federal bureau of investigation and the state department to determine the extent to which the Nazi propagandists named therein can be prosecuted legally for espionage, as distinct from those German embassy officials and diplomats who may only be invited to leave the country.

In case any voters are yet in doubt as to what the issue is in this congressional election, Representative Kent Keller, the Avon, Ill., Democrat, has taken steps to set them right. In a message urging the reelection of his colleague, Ed Isaac of San Diego, Mr. Keller has informed the world through the congressional record:

"Summarizing the record of Ed Isaac, the following figures show how much money he brought into his district during his four years in congress:

1937, $5,000,000; 1938, $8,000,000; 1939, $9,000,000; 1940, $22,000,000.

"The next four years are the most important period in the history of San Diego. If Congressmen Isaac is retained in congress, San Diego people have every reason to expect it to become the greatest naval base on the Pacific coast."

British Are Coming

The British are hot after American light tanks and flying fortresses. They will get them but may have to wait until after election. The administration desires to do as little as possible to ripple the electoral waves before Nov. 5.

Some opposition is stirring within the army to the release of the tanks but no objection would be made to relinquishing the flying fortresses.

The army has insufficient tanks to equip our only two armored divisions and the scarcity of armor plate is hindering defense preparations. The British want them because they have air-cooled engines, making them especially adapted for fighting in Egypt and the desert areas. The idea of air cooling for tanks apparently has not previously occurred to the British.

The flying fortresses are validly obsolete. They have insufficient armor and improvements that have lately been made as to speed, guns, etc. They would, however, be valuable for night bombing over Germany. Our production has been stepped up from three to five planes a month.

Is There a Campaign?

According to official folklore, it is just Republican propaganda that a presidential campaign is now under way. Mr. Roosevelt has not yet admitted he is running for a third term. No government department will confess it has any knowledge here in Washington that a political argument is in progress around the country. Consequently, warm denials have been issued against the natural inference that the new exemptions announced by wages and hours and the official leakage on the SEC study of rich family influence upon corporate life, were thrown out at this time as political fodder.

The wage hour exemptions were timed by law. The act required the 40-hour week to go into effect Oct. 24 and if any exemptions were to be made, they had to be announced before that date. Business representatives here concede they are fairly beneficial to business.

But behind the plea of political ignorance every government department is issuing its publicity policy for effect on campaign. The work has been coordinated and timed in advance so efficiently as the German time schedule for the march through Holland.

Stream-lined efficiency is supposed to be the order of the day in promoting Latin-American trade. The President recently sent Warren Lee Plerson, head of the export-import bank, to Argentina armed with great powers, and presumably bulging with information and zeal concerning exports and imports in that direction.

But the first cable received by his export-import bank headquarters here upon his arrival in Buenos Aires was in substance: "Please rush statistics American exports to Argentina."

Today and Tomorrow

National Disunion, Largely Product of Campaign, Seen as Handicap for U. S.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

ALTHOUGH the electioneering has temporarily diverted public attention from it, the ten-year alliance between Japan and the Axis is the paramount problem in the present and in the future of the United States. Only at our peril can we ignore the gravity of our position. This little alliance, which may yet absorb Russia and the remaining European non-belligerents, is a formidable combination: it can establish itself successfully in Spain and northern Africa, in the Middle East, and in the Netherlands Indies and Singapore. If it can knock out China and Great Britain, it will have the natural resources and the industrial power and the naval force to threaten us in any of the weakly defended regions of this hemisphere.

The purposes and the plans of this alliance are hidden behind the most powerful censorship that was ever set up. In the preparatory stages, which consists of intrigue, corruption, and sabotage, even the acts of this combination are hidden. They are in action long before there is news of their acts. They do not conduct elections and discuss the pros and cons of their plans publicly and they do not publish all the details of their military preparation and of the disposition of their armed forces. Therefore, they have the initiative. Therefore, they can employ the greatest of all secret weapons—surprise, which means that their opponents must try to be ready for anything and everything whereas they have only to prepare for the surprising thing which they have decided to do.

Deliberate Act Quickly
Having no opposition at home, no leader of the opposition asks them whether they have made plans to deal with emergencies which may arise; on the other hand, they are reassured by the knowledge that no coherent plan can be made to deal with the emergencies which they are planning to create. For they count on the fact that in a democracy the formulation of a plan of resistance would immediately be made a partisan issue, if not openly then by innuendo. So they can plan in secret and the only plans which the democracy can make in reply are so well advertised by a long and hesitating discussion that they lose a large part of their effectiveness before they can be executed.

This self-imposed paralysis of the democratic states produces the tragic ironies which are being displayed in this campaign: the irony of an opposition which attacks the President as if he were a dangerously strong man when the fact is that, with all his many excellent qualities, the President is not so strong, so consistent and so resolute a man as more grouping to political pressure and to group pressure, than the President of the United States can in these times afford to be. It produces the irony of an opposition which promises one day to revert to the golden age of Mr. Mark Sullivan's dreams of the pre-war world and on the next day promises to surpass Miss Dorothy Thompson's hopes of a total mobilization of the industry and the man power of the nation. It produces the irony of a people being asked by Col. Lindbergh to distrust their own leaders but to trust the declarations of the alliance which threatens them.

Consultation Attempt Failed
Only the congenitally blind and those who are temporarily blinded by partisanship can fail to see that it is most dangerous thing for a government to be paralyzed at so critical a time. There is no need for it. Mr. Willkie and Mr. Roosevelt see eye to eye on all the essential principles and objectives of American foreign policy. But the safety of the country requires that they should also see eye to eye on the specific measures to carry out that policy. For a policy in the abstract is nothing; a policy is realized through specific measures. To agree on measures men must consult one another, and in any mature democracy, like Britain's for example, there is, as a matter of course consultation between the government and the opposition on all matters of high policy.

But though earnest efforts were made in the early days of the campaign to arrange a means of consultation between Mr. Willkie and Mr. Roosevelt, the effort was a failure. Whoever was responsible for the failure bears a heavy responsibility. Whoever it was, on one side or on both sides, that interfered, arousing personal suspicion where a patriotic and disinterested collaboration was im-

Chiseling 'Patriots' Hit

Service "At-a-Price" Runs Into Obstacles.

By JOHN GROVER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—Patriotism who expected to make patriotism by "chiseling in" on the defense program, are finding that it doesn't work that way.

Their schemes for taking folding money from Mr. and Mrs. America in the name of patriotism have fallen into four classifications:

(1) "Phoney" aid to industrialists seeking defense contracts;

(2) Chivalry, no less "phoney," for refugees in war-torn countries;

(3) Collections for anti-fifth column activity;

(4) Sale of "official" patriotic emblems.

The schemers have been stymied by widespread publicity and laws with teeth. But they did try to cash in.

Hint at "Pull"

The defense program mushroomed with such speed that sincere business men who wanted to put their factories at the disposal of the government didn't know how to go about it. Pseudo-executives and business representatives in Washington sought to take advantage of their confusion.

Claude Woodward, director of the Washington better business bureau, said hundreds of business men were approached by the capital hangers-on.

Cunningly worded brochures inferred it would be necessary to have "connections" in official Washington to participate in defense contracts. They hinted at powerful "pull" in high places for a fat commission.

Woodward published a defense "primer" for business men which warned that such representation was wholly unnecessary. He advised legitimate seekers of defense contracts to get on with it.

The factionalists did not bear in mind the mighty warning of Burke that "When bad men combine, the good must associate; else they will fall one by one, an unpitied sacrifice in a contemptible struggle."

Copyright, 1940, New York Tribune, Inc.

lense contracts to get in touch with the nearest field purchasing offices of the Army and Navy.

Held 'Benefits'

This warning largely short-circuited "big shots" who offered worthless counsel to industrialists. The bureau continues to investigate and report on all such offers.

The neutrality law has put a crimp in the refugee "charity" racket. The usual procedure was to sponsor a "benefit" for some worthy cause. "Expenses"—which went to the chiseler—ate up the proceeds.

The neutrality law requires any organization sending charitable funds abroad to obtain a license from the state department. Such permits are denied any group employing paid solicitors or planning a benefit where expenses will run above a legitimate, tiny percentage of the gross. About 300 legitimate groups have been licensed.

Blasted by FBI

Fake patriots who attempted to set up anti-sepy organizations as a front to collect funds were blasted by FBI publicity that urged citizens to deal only with law enforcement agencies. Those who peddled "official" patriotic emblems at profiteer prices now are opposed by vigilant better business bureaus all over the country.

U. S. postal inspectors are on the alert to examine all patriotic "rackets" to determine if mail fraud laws have been broken. The department of justice also has its eye cocked for violations of the promotion of patriotism-at-a-price.

So it looks like a hard winter for "patriots" willing to give their all—for a small fee to cover expenses and mailing charges.

Booing

Our Old Man Never Forgives That Time He Ran a list Back in Pueblo.

By DAMON RUNY

WE have told you about the man ran for office on the Po back in our old home town of Pueblo. He responded to the bombardment of the voters of Peppersauce Bottoms, got to tell you how he reacted to indignities of the political campaign.

Our old man was one of a number who addressed a street meeting and like the others he came in to booing. This was nothing uncommon our old home town in those days, speakers expected to get some boo and accepted it as a matter of course.

When our old man's remarks ruptured by boos he would stop until but all the time running his eyes over the crowd and occasionally jotting down notes on a sheet of paper. It came out afterward that he was putting down the names of boosers that he recognized in the crowd, but he made no comment on the booing at the moment.

It was some weeks after the election in which he was badly defeated that our old man showed up in a church where one of our most distinguished ministers was delivering a sermon and took a seat in a pew. He sat there quietly listening to the minister's address, but he let out a terrific boo-oo-oo. I paused, his face in alarm. Members gregation sat up startled.

The minister resumed his discourse what featteringly, and pretty soon said boo-oo-oo again in a loud voice. He halted and, addressing our old man whom he knew quite well the meaning of this strange interjection of worship. He wanted to know what it was in accord with the good manners.

Our old man got up and said but that he did not agree with what said and that he felt he had the vocal disapproval as the minister exercised during the recent political. Our old man said when he was at street meeting he had seen the m in the crowd with his mouth open at him. He said that in so doing the quite within his rights, but that on the same privilege for himself to the minister.

Well, all this caused considerable in the church, as some members gregation. Probably Populists, cried old man was dead-end and other Republicans or Democrats, shouted out and the poor preacher was so could not continue his talk. Our old man finally prevailed upon to leave the he went down the street and stood a local banker's home where the some boos were sitting on the 1 went boo-oo-oo for 10 minutes, he

HE said the banker was another he had seen at the political m him during his speech and that booing the banker in return encountered him.

He said he would probably s front of the banker's bank at regu booing heartily. Our old man s more he was going to go right d of citizens who had booed him at and give them boo for boo if it rest of his life.

Some of his friends tried to pc the citizens had only booed him candidate he was in more or less capacity and that it would not be to boo them when they were ne doing anything of a public natu old man said life was too short wait to catch them out in the o he was going to keep on booing t as his voice held out, unless in U he received apologies from every l meeting.

MOST people back in our old thought he was fooling but so some of the most prominent c not walk down the street without boo-oo-oo-oo at them, everyb alarmed and our old man comme written apologies by the score. Fina up with more apologies than there at the meeting.

He admitted afterward that he one citizen who was not even i night of the meeting, but he said was no mistake on his part. He said the citizen on general principles. C said it had been his observation four out of every 10 citizens of ought to be booed on general princi (Copyright, 1940, King Features)

Rev. Schuh is president of the building committee. Other officers are Harry Hoch, vice president, Otto Seiter, treasurer, Charles Ullman, secretary, and Grover Lichtenberger, George Naher, Ber-naldo Williams, Walter Behner, Wesley Seiter, trustees, Perry Seiter, George Lust, Melvin Seiter and William Benzel, deacons, Carl Hoch and Roy Hoch, elders, Delbert Lichtenberger, financial secretary and general chairman, Clifford Seiter, church building fund treasurer, and Paul H. Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get at its cause. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to "cure" it afterward—you can avoid having it.

Chances are you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this is what you lack, try crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains just the "bulk" you need.

Eat All-Bran often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

DAVEY'S MICROPHONE GOES DEAD IN TALK

Lambasts Mt. Vernon for Incident.

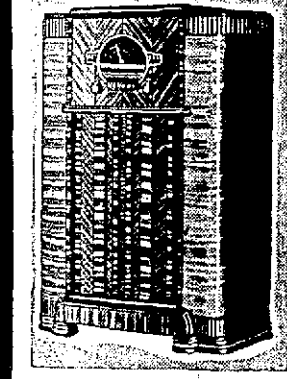

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 17.—Former Mayor Martin L. Davey, Democratic candidate for a third term, today after blaming
"narrow partisanship" for the slandering of a microphone which he was speaking into, took steps at Mount Vernon yesterday.
Davey's belief, votes are made by "narrow partisanship," Davey told his audience, adding that he had "never seen such a thing" as that which he had done yesterday.
He said he believed the current was turned off inside the house.
Davey devoted the remainder of his speech to challenging the claims of Gov. Bricker, Republican opponent.
Davey scheduled speeches
at Mansfield, Wooster, East
Columbus and Steubenville.
Gov. Bricker, who spent yesterday morning in Ohio with Wendell
L. Willkie, Republican presidential candidate, was to appear at Washington, C. H., Hillsboro,
Franklin and Wilmington.
A. Nelson, Maj. Norman A. Im-hoff, Columbus last night asserted that any president who spent his time with President Roosevelt and still kept the country in its defense underwear, would ple's property.

Try safe, fast, Jany's Vermicide (in medi-

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.
When a doctor of kidneys is something wrong poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

PROOF OF SALVATION IS THEME OF SERMON

Evangelist at Epworth Points to Bible as Guide.

"The Witness of the Spirit" was the topic of a sermon given by Evangelist John R. Church last night at Epworth Methodist church. He pointed out that the Bible is very clear in its teaching that the only way to be saved is by faith in Jesus Christ.

Using quotations from the Bible he showed that it is possible for a person to be deceived and mistaken about his or her salvation, emphasizing his point with the quotation, "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death." Since it is possible to be deceived this made it imperative that we should have a Divine assurance that we are right with God, he maintained.

He declared that the Bible teaches we may know we have truly saving faith and are really sons of God. "The sons of God," he stated, "no professing Christian ought to be satisfied with anything less than this Divine assurance. To be deceived about our standing with God is the most fatal thing in the world," he declared.

F. J. Milby conducts the congregational singing each night and also sings a solo.

Tonight Evangelist Church will preach on "People Without a Pedigree." Services are held each evening at 7:30 except Saturday.

EPISCOPALIANS LACK HOST FOR 1943 MEETING

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 17—Delegates hope to complete the triennial convention of the Episcopal church Saturday, five days ahead of schedule, but find themselves stymied by lack of a host for their 1943 meeting.

Presiding Bishop Henry St. George Tucker of Richmond, Va., said the convention had not received a single bid for the next triennial.

After considering designs for 20 years, the convention adopted an official church flag, submitted by William M. Baldwin, 76-year-old New York manufacturer.

The flag has a red cross on a white background. In the upper left corner are nine Jerusalem crosses on a pale blue field.

Other crosses included final approval of membership in the World Council of Churches.

Lewis Compton Says Work Ahead of Schedule.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17—The United States "now stands ready" to meet the challenge of any aggression, says Lewis Compton, assistant secretary of the navy. He told the Franklin Institute last night that construction of bases in the Aleutian Islands, the mid Pacific and Puerto Rico is running six to eight months ahead of schedule while other bases are rapidly nearing completion.

"When this program is completed," he said, "this country and the whole western hemisphere should be able to stand impregnable against an attack from any possible combination of enemies."

Dykstra Declares Draft Shows U. S. Democracy Works

By The Associated Press

Clarence A. Dykstra declared in his first public statement as draft director that "those who had thought we were soft and supine and, as a democracy, could not move with effectiveness, may be disappointed."

The 57-year-old University of Wisconsin president, who had taken the oath of his new position in the office of Secretary Stimson but a short time earlier, added that "the news is that the registration went off more than happily—with enthusiasm."

"It shows the ability of a great democracy to rise to an occasion of this kind," he told a press conference.

As chief of the nation's first peacetime selective service system, Dykstra's main task will be to supervise the drafting for military service of approximately 5,000,000 young men from the more than 18,000,000 who signed up yesterday.

Shortly after Dykstra took office President Roosevelt issued an executive order authorizing him to appoint necessary members of local draft boards, appeals boards, government appeals agents, and local board physicians. All such work from now on will be under the new chief's direction.

FORMER ROOSEVELT BACKER HITS FLYNN

Publisher Criticizes Chairman's Attack on Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—The Republican state committee made public today a telegram to Edward J. Flynn from Tom R. Hutten, Birmingham, N. Y., editor, replying to the Democratic national chairman's charge that newspapermen are under a "financial dictatorship" of their advertisers.

"You owe an apology to honest newspapermen and newspapermen all over the country," the telegram said, "for falling into an illogical and unbecoming generalization about the good faith of newspapermen who have been consistently fair through the years and on whom no advertiser pressure could be exerted under any circumstances."

Flynn at a press conference yesterday challenged newspapermen to "tell why they feel their readers in the news columns wholesale doses of partisan propaganda, instead of adhering to the independence they so often want, and give their readers an even break on the actual news of the days?"

Hutten said his paper, the Birmingham Press, supported Roosevelt in 1932 and is supporting Wendell Wilkie this year.

Estimates $1,000,000 for St. Lawrence Study.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—President Roosevelt has authorized the establishment of a fund to study the St. Lawrence river, which he has estimated at $1,000,000 for the study.

The fund will be used to finance preliminary surveys and studies of the river, which is one of the most important waterways in the world. The study is being conducted by the St. Lawrence Development Corporation, which is a joint venture between the United States and Canada.

Draft Registration Totals 5,089

Both brought their cards back to the election board at 9:10. The others came in steadily, the last one to report being 5-B (offices at 300 South Main street) about 10 o'clock.

The election board had its totals compiled for each of the county's three draft districts quickly and telegraphed the figures to Gov. Bricker shortly after 10 in accordance with instructions from state draft officials.

No reports of conscientious objectors or of persons refusing to register were received anywhere in the county. Of course, all the individual cards have not yet been inspected at any central point and there may be some cards which bear the notation "conscientious objector." It was the privilege of any young man to have this written on his registration card.

No Refusals

Police Chief Marks, whose department would have been called to handle any persons who refused to answer registration questions, received not a call all day. "The only ones we received," he said, "were from transients. We sent them next door to the municipal court." (Precinct A, Fourth Ward.)

He said he did not know of police referring transients to the sheriff's office (Marion Township South.) However, this precinct was kept busy all day long with out-of-county registrants.

"They ran out of supplies before 10 o'clock," a county election official reported today.

C. G. Ritzler, deputy clerk of the board, reported one instance which must have been repeated numerous times during the day.

"I was on my way to the township health office (Marion township North precinct) when a man stopped me and asked where he could register."

Mr. Ritzler asked where he lived.

"Not any place," replied the man, obviously a gentleman of the road.

So he went to the health office to register for military service.

Typically American

It was truly democratic—rich and poor, capitalist and laborer, all types rubbing shoulders at the registration desk.

They all answered the same 11 questions. They all received little registration certificates which they must carry with them at all times.

Election officials estimated that half the precincts in the county demanded extra supplies at some time during the 14-hour registration period. There will still be plenty of supplies left on hand at the county offices when it is all over.

No reports were received of long lines standing to wait their turn at 9 o'clock and there seemed to be no special "rush" hour during the day.

There were some cases of persons waiting at 7 a. m. for the polling places to open. Phillip Boyd of west of Marion was the first at the courthouse, stationing himself there before the workers arrived.

Then there were some cases the other way around. About 10 p. m. when county election officials were about ready to go home, two young men appeared to ask if they could register. They were referred to their proper draft boards, who will decide what to do with them.

Signature Problem

In one city precinct one of the registrants sent several hours yesterday chasing down about 10 young men he had registered. It was about noon when the shifts of registrants changed at the precinct that it was found the registrant had been signing the names of men himself, instead of letting the men sign the cards.

Mr. Ritzler advised him to get new cards, track down the men and re-register them. He had all but one last night and promised to get the other by today.

One of the problems which arose during the day was the registration of Marion county men in precincts other than the ones in which they lived. There is nothing in the law against this, but it is contrary to the intention of the instructions. Such cases were fairly numerous, with men dropping in at whatever place happened to be handiest. This will necessitate careful sorting of the cards by the draft boards to see that the cards ultimately reach the correct district.

This may account in part for one thing which surprised election officials in the registration totals. The Sixth ward, which is about equal in size to others in the city, had only 383 registrations, smallest in the city.

that doesn't believe it is possible to get jobs will ever be able to get them. The New Deal says to you: 'Why take a chance? Why take a chance on changing administrations at this time?'

"We say to you: What have you got to lose?"

Criticizes Attitude

Willkie described a cartoon picturing him with a sign saying, "A job in every home." He said it was issued by the Democratic national committee "because they thought it was very silly."

"If America has reached the point where that is a silly and laughable idea," he added, "then there is not much hope left for us."

Until new jobs are created in private industry, he declared, the relief program should not be radically revised. He offered five suggestions for improving the present federal relief setup.

Willkie said that three principles should guide the administration of federal relief: Relief is not "a political matter," the support of those on relief is not primarily an economic problem except that "the final solution of unemployment lies in the revival of our whole economy," and the relief program "is primarily a human problem" to give those without other support "a decent opportunity for the pursuit of happiness."

Cites Abuse

All these principles, the candidate declared, have been abused by the Roosevelt administration.

Willkie said at the start that a new form of slavery—"the slavery of idleness"—had been created in the United States.

"This is an economic slavery," he said, "in slavery that we seek to hide from our own eyes by calling it unemployment."

In discussing his contention that the New Deal had abused the relief program, he asserted that "the first and most shocking (abuse) has been the injection of politics into relief."

"The New Deal," he said, "has looked upon unemployment as an opportunity to exchange bread for votes. This attitude has been expressed by Harry Hopkins. He put this way: 'We got about 3,000,000 people working for us.'"

"The New Deal," he continued, "has wasted money 'through inefficiency, poor planning, improper bidding, overstaffing, and many other abuses.'"

"This kind of extravagance," Willkie declared, "does not help the WPA worker, the taxpayer, or anyone 'but the New Deal politicians.'"

JACKSON ATTACKS LINDBERGH'S SPEECH

Says Purpose Was To Weaken Faith in Democracy.

By The Associated Press
BOSTON, Oct. 17.—Attacking Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's most recent radio address, Attorney General Jackson held today that "no speech, in its timing and substance, could more perfectly have served the purpose of those who would weaken the morale of democracy and undermine the spirit of our defense effort."

"It was significant," Jackson told the Law Society of Massachusetts last night, "that his only reference to democracy was a sneering reference to the effort that the public was being harangued about it."

"AMNESIA" BARS MAN'S REGISTRATION FOR DRAFT

But Transient at Upper Sandusky Registered at Jail.

Special to The Star
UPPER SANDUSKY, Oct. 17.—Young Mike Brown, who declared he was an amnesia victim and didn't know his real name or his home, stopped here yesterday to register for the draft.

His only registration, however, was at the county jail where Marshal Adolph Kirschner is holding him pending word from the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington.

Brown, a transient, was fingerprinted and photographed for FBI records in an attempt to identify him.

He said he lost his memory a year ago.

Nazis Can't Follow Leander Across the Hellespont

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Leander swam the Hellespont (we call it the Dardanelles nowadays) and maybe Herr Hitler could, too—but the Nazi Fuehrer could swim an army across the strategic water-barrier between Europe and the Near East to help Mussolini crush Britain in the Mediterranean theater.

That's fanciful, say you. Granted, but it's meant to emphasize the Dardanelles strait presents one of the most serious obstacles the axis partners will encounter if they try to crash into the Near East by a thrust down the Balkan peninsula.

It is a fact we should keep in mind as the war-threats flash back and forth across this cockpit, and the situation grows more tense. We are likely to hear a lot more about the Dardanelles before we are through.

Another Water Hazard

Herr Hitler must feel rather sorry for himself to find that, having been strangled from the British later by the English channel, he now is up against another water hazard which has broken the hearts of many good men and brave in days gone by. It's one of the world's toughest roads to conquer.

I have small doubt that once the Germans had forced this strait and conquered Turkey they could steam-roll most of the rest of the Near East rather readily. As I remarked yesterday, however, it and when the exponents of the total-war make this effort they're going to precipitate one of the great battles of history.

The Dardanelles strait is 47 miles long, and from one to four miles wide. It then broadens into the little sea of Marmora which in turn opens into the Black sea through the Bosphorus at Istanbul (Constantinople).

I've sailed through this narrow reach and rarely have seen a position so easily capable of defense.

This whole water-way is in Turkey's territory so that she can fortify both sides and the passage itself. Under an international convention signed in 1908, the Dardanelles was declared neutral and the Bosphorus were demilitarized and opened to all nations—but—and this is vital—Turkey was granted permission if at war, or threatened by war, to close the straits to other nationalities.

Turks Likely Ready

Well, if the present isn't a threatening situation I don't know what is. It's a safe bet that the Turks have made this water thoroughfare as nearly impregnable as they can to prepare for eventualities.

If the axis twins find any solace in the thought, the Dardanelles has been fought before this. It first achieved fame in 410 B. C. when King Xerxes of Persia invaded Europe with an army by using a bridge of boats a mile long. Then in 334 B. C. Alexander crossed into Asia.

ONE KILLED IN FIGHT

Complaints were scattered, however, and disturbances were few, although one man was killed in a gun-fight at a Nebraska registration place, another fell dead in Raleigh, N. C., one was arrested and several conscientious objectors caused flurries of excitement.

Compliance with the law appeared to be general, but subpoenas were served on eight theological students who refused to register in New York City and one man was jailed in El Paso, Texas, for refusing. Some objecting registrants were black arm bands.

As soon as registration ended at 9 p. m. last night, cards began to move from the registration places to county clerks, for redistribution to 6,500 local draft boards which began functioning officially today. Most boards should have the cards of the men in their areas before tonight.

The boards first will shuffle the cards and give them serial numbers which will be drawn in a national lottery in Washington to determine the order in which men will be subject to call for service. Within a few days, the boards will begin publishing the serial numbers and when they have finished, the lottery will be held, sometime between Oct. 26 and Nov. 2.

"The need for accuracy and care in these first steps cannot be over-emphasized," the local boards were told by Lieut. Col. Lewis B. Hershey, acting national director of selective service, who praised the "whole hearted response to the nation's call" evidenced at registration places yesterday.

DIKSTRA TAKES OVER

Hershey, who was expected to be named deputy director, will turn over his temporary duties today to Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, who arrives from Chicago to take office as director by appointment of the President.

Meanwhile, clerks of local boards will register those unavoidably detained yesterday, start action against delinquents and receive voluntary army enlistment offers for one year from men between 18 and 36.

Regular army three-year enlistments continued throughout the draft registration, and the number of volunteers for duty is expected to fill a large part of the first draft quota.

The number of selective service trainees who may be inducted into the army is limited to 900,000 a year under the draft act, which expires May 15, 1945. Some men who signed up yesterday may not even be classified or called for two or more years.

Too eager to wait, some youngsters volunteered immediately.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS MADE IN SOME CASES

Special provisions were carried out yesterday in registering persons in Marion county unable to get to go to their regular precincts.

NEW INFANTILE PARALYSIS CASE LISTED IN MARION

A new case of infantile paralysis was reported to city health department officials yesterday, bringing to 13 the number of cases listed in Marion city and county since the middle of August.

The latest victim is Mary Ann Graff, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orland Graff of 488 Davis street. The child has been ill one week but the ailment was not diagnosed as polio until yesterday when severe paralysis set in. The house was quarantined immediately, health department officials reported.

Three of the 13 cases are active. Quarantines have been removed in the other cases.

EAGLES VOTE SUPPORT TO SCHOOL THREE-MILL LEVY

The approximately 100 members of Buckeye Aerie No. 337, F. O. Eagles present at a meeting last night voted to back the new school operating purposes. Six applications for membership were received. Tuesday night about 125 men attended a prospective members' dinner. Plans are to have such dinners about twice a month during the winter.

BIRTHS

Twins, a boy and a girl, were born early this morning at City hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Pittman of Richwood. The girl was born at 1:25 and the boy at 1:40.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith of near Marion are parents of a son born yesterday afternoon at City hospital.

GRANGE CHORUS CONTEST

Singers from Crawford and Morrow county granges will hold a chorus contest Friday night at the Claridon school. The program, which will start at 8, has been arranged by James P. Krautner, deputy master of Crawford county, and Eastman Burkley, deputy master of Morrow county.

5-D Mrs. Frank Stanley and Mrs. Nellie Cromer, precinct election officials, registered two men whose homes are in Huntington, W. Va., one from Mt. Gilead and one from Richwood.

One Radnor man registered at city prison and four men were registered at the county jail.

C. G. Ritzler, deputy clerk of the Marion county board of elections, reported receiving several calls on behalf of persons ill at homes. He notified election officials of the precincts involved to go to the homes and register the men. He said this morning he did not know how many persons were registered under this provision.

Dr. N. Sifrit, Marion county health commissioner, was delegated by Mr. Ritzler to enter the quarantined home of Carol Slayner, 34, of just east of Marion, and register him. Mr. Slayner's mother, Carol, is ill of infantile paralysis.

22 REGISTERED AT CCC CAMP EAST OF CITY

Thirty-two men, including 23 youths and four members of the civilian technical staff, were registered at the CCC camp east of Marion yesterday.

The registrations were taken by army officers in charge of the camp and mailed to CCC headquarters in Columbus. From here they will be sent to draft boards in the men's home towns.

A total of 183 youths are now stationed at the camp but all except the 28 are under the 21-year age limit. Officers reported.

going over just sort of quiet," one of the Co. D men said this morning. "But boy, you should have seen the pep we had coming back."

"All that is," he added, "except those who didn't pass the exam and most of them felt pretty bad."

Travel in Trucks

Co. D men made the trip to and from Mansfield in six trucks from the Bucyrus Service Battery of the 134th Artillery, and the Headquarters men went in two trucks sent by Battery D, 134th Artillery at Mansfield.

Officers of Co. D and Headquarters Detachment all passed successfully their physical examinations given recently at Columbus.

No further enlistment can be accepted by either unit, Capt. H. L. Taylor of Co. D said this morning. Orders have come from the 134th Artillery headquarters in Columbus that until further notice no more men are to be accepted, the captain said.

Today at the Armory, the men were issued individual equipment records and were put to work filling bed sacks with straw.

After today all drills will be held on the Marion Steam Shovel Co. athletic field on Uncapher avenue and the drill floor at the Armory will be used as sleeping quarters.

8-Hour Drill Daily

Drills will be held eight hours a day at the field, four hours in the morning and four in the afternoon.

Every night from 7:30 to 9 there will be a special non-commissioned officers' school at the Armory to discuss the drills of the next day.

Among the men to whom the Armory will be "home" until they train for Camp Shelby near Hattiesburg, Miss., are two fathers and a son. Captain H. L. Taylor's son, Carlton W. Taylor, 20, is a private in Co. D, having enlisted early in September, and Corp. Don Edington, 20, is the son of Sgt. Lawrence Edington of the company.

So far no word has been received changing the tentative date of departure, Oct. 24, a week from today, according to Captain Taylor.

members. The first chairman is Walter A. Dorsey of South Vine street and the secretary is John J. Zuck of Troy avenue. Other members are Don A. Howard, Charles A. Felker and Chester C. Roberts.

To Meet Today

The board planned to meet at 3 o'clock today to obtain its cards from the election board and begin sorting. It will meet daily for a while.

In sorting the cards, the boards will make sure the cards reach their proper draft districts. For example, some of the boards will have registration cards of men from almost every state, men who happened to be visiting in Marion yesterday.

Likewise, Marion county's boards in a few days will begin to receive cards of Marion men who registered in other cities.

When all the cards are received here, they will be shuffled thoroughly by each board. Then one card will be picked at random, blindly so to speak, from the pile, and will be given Serial No. 1. Then other cards will also be given successive numbers until all have a distinct number.

How Drawing Will Work

When these are all numbered, the governor will be informed of the total and will forward it to Washington. There officials will prepare little capsules containing as many numbers as there are registered registrants in the nation.

Then a lottery drawing will be held at Washington and so many numbers drawn out by chance.

All the men throughout the nation whose cards bear the numbers drawn at Washington will be in the first draft group.

However, not all the men whose numbers are drawn will actually enter service, because of deferments.

Drawing After Nov. 1

The drawing will not be held until after the first deferment. When the first numbers are drawn, the men who have been deferred will be in the second draft group.

When the second numbers are drawn, the men who have been deferred will be in the third draft group.

WYANDOT COUNTY

UPPER SANDUSKY, Oct. 17.—Wyandot county residents will have to wait a while to learn how many of their young men registered yesterday for the draft. This morning only 24 of the 40 precincts in the county had reported and those had not yet totaled by the count election board.

Apparently the precinct officials had not been instructed to report as soon as they completed their work last night. All precincts are expected to report by late today.

FACES CHARGE

Lopez, 28, all gave the Kenton avenue house as their address.

Prosecuting Attorney Paul D. Michel, who with Police Chief Marks and City Solicitor Kenneth A. Robinson conducted the investigation, said the inquiry started Sunday night when the 20-year-old Cleveland girl reported to police that she had just "escaped" from the Kenton avenue house, where she had been held for two weeks against her will.

Mr. Michel quoted the girl as saying she had been employed as a waitress in Cleveland until about two weeks ago when she met Rogers. The girl said Rogers offered her a job in a Marion night club, but instead brought her to the Kenton avenue house. She said she had been waiting for an opportunity to escape. She was able to escape only after a struggle.

Mr. Michel said that during questioning Rogers admitted bringing the girl to Marion under false pretenses, but denied the girl's charge that she was "forced" to remain at the house. She became disoriented over a financial settlement in which Rogers figured Saturday night. Rogers was quoted as saying:

"The house on Kenton avenue was rented a short time after the girl told her story to officers. Mr. Michel said the property is owned by Mr. Grace Pollock, who has been told by the investigation."

All the girls in connection with the case were held in the county jail until they could be located by their relatives.

PICKPOCKETS FOLLOW G. O. P. CAMPAIGN TRAIN

Three Thefts Reported Here,
Two at Mansfield.

Pickpockets apparently traveled in the shadow of the Willkie presidential campaign trip throughout its swing into Ohio yesterday, news report today indicated.

Altogether three cases were reported to police here, involving nearly $100 in cash. F. H. Redfern of Findlay yesterday afternoon told police that a billfold containing $30 in cash was taken from his pocket while he was listening to Willkie's rear platform talk. Previously a Marion man and a Bucyrus man had reported similar thefts totaling $87.

Thefts totaling $62 were reported to authorities following Mr. Willkie's rear platform speech at Mansfield which immediately preceded his Marion appearance. The victims were Mansfield and Shelby men.

FELT LIKE A KNIFE STICKING IN HIS BACK AT EVERY MOVE

Popular Ohio citizen says the famous Root, Herb and Alkaline medicine Vendol, now being introduced here, quickly relieved him. Took the stiffness out of his muscles by relieving constipation and acting as a mild diuretic to kidneys.

Mr. Charles Rich

There is no mystery about the effectiveness of Vendol, the reliable medicine which is now being introduced in Marion by the Vendol Men at Eckers' Cut Rate Drug Co. Vendol contains nothing that your own physician does not know about. However, it does contain much medicinal value, with the result that it brings relief time after time in many cases where other things the sufferer tried had failed.

Mr. Charles Rich, a lather by trade living at 204 N. Highland Ave., Bucyrus, Ohio, says, "Constipation was a daily annoyance to me, so much so that hardly a night passed but that the pains in my back kept me awake long after I had retired. My muscles were sore and caused a lot of suffering. Sometimes it felt as though a knife were sticking in my back. The pains extended down into my hips and legs and caused such agony that it was impossible to get a good night's rest. Then in the morning I would awaken feeling sore and stiff and the pains would seem to be all over my body."

"Although I had been troubled with constipation for a long time, I did not suspect this was causing all the above troubles; but I'm honest in saying that I never had anything relieve me like Vendol did. It wasn't long after I started taking it before I had the most gratifying relief from constipation, and it also acted as a mild diuretic to my kidneys; then the pains, aches, and stiffness just seemed to vanish, and now I never have a headache, but get restful sleep every night and awaken ready for my day's work. Vendol proved to be a wonderful thing for me so I want to advise everyone suffering the same way from the same causes to start taking it at once."

The splendid relief Vendol gives is due to its excellent formula of extracts of roots and herbs with valuable Alkalines added for extra benefits. If you suffer as described above, don't delay trying Vendol. You will surely like it.

Learn all the plain, truthful facts about Vendol; hear how it may help you. Come to Eckers' Cut Rate Drug Co., ask for me, the Vendol Man, and I'll explain all about it. Give Vendol a chance to put you on the road to better health. Most all druggists sell it.

MINISTER SPEAKS TO BOYS AT CCC CAMP

Ghandi's Philosophy of Life
Explained by Dr. Ingmire.

Dr. S. M. Ingmire of Epworth Methodist church spoke last night to the boys at the CCC camp east of Marion.

He based his talk on the three guiding principles of Mahatma Ghandi's philosophy of life. He said in part:

"He feels by living an inner life that regardless of how other people treat him he will not be offended. In fact, his slogan is 'no one can offend me.'"

"He will think and let other people think and love them in spite of what they think. In adopting tolerance of thought in other people he has often been greatly benefited. He is a man of great conviction but assumes that others have a right to their convictions. This does not mean that he does not try to change their way of thinking, for he believes that moral persuasion is an individual right. But he loves them in spite of their convictions. As long as we live in a social world order we cannot live entirely unto ourselves."

"He never ceases to be grateful for benefits derived from society. In other words, gratitude is one of his guiding principles of life. To be grateful for home, country and friends is one of the greatest assets to personal achievement."

Burglars Ransack House, Leave Loot in Victim's Yard

Police are baffled by the circumstances of a burglary last night at the Commodore Wilson home on East Mark street.

Mr. Wilson reported to police shortly after midnight today that while he was away from home earlier in the evening someone removed a first floor window, ransacked the house and took a radio, tools and a quantity of bedding and groceries.

At first police thought there was nothing unusual about the case except the burglar took the window-sash—glass and all—with him. But this morning Mr. Wilson reported he had found all the stolen articles piled up in his back yard, except the window sash. Jason Hypes of 322 North Main street reported to police that a sneak thief entered his house yesterday and took a suit, pair of shoes and shirt belonging to a tourist, Edward Courtney of Detroit, Mich. The articles are valued at $32, according to police records.

Beware Coughs Following Flu
After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

As Madge and Lillian had always suspected, Verizen reveals his responsibility in the return of Leslie.

AGAIN there was that surprising note of pride in Philip Verizen's voice as he spoke of Madge's coming through the various trials through which he had passed, and again I felt my responsibility against him ebbing away.

"Yes," he resumed, "I turned my whole attention to finding out whether she had the stamina to be a real trouper. As I told you at that conference, I never should have dared to do what I did, if I had not known that you—he looked at me with the glint of a smile, though a somber one—were your resourcefulness and your great acting talent—he bowed flamboyantly—would come her in a real rendition of the role. But I think you will agree that it was the most gruelling test to which a neophyte could be subjected. That she came through it with such flying colors is a matter of great pride and satisfaction to me, and it should be to you also."

"I am afraid I am thinking of the terms of the mental anguish which Mary endured while the act was going on," I said.

He stared at me, and I saw that he had not the slightest comprehension of my viewpoint.

"But the experience was so valuable to her," he said, and then he fell silent, and I saw that his fingers were again gripping the chair arms until the flesh showed white around the nails.

Drastic Methods

"Are you satisfied with my explanation about my treatment of Mary?" he asked Lillian.

"Perfectly," she said. "I'm not saying I agree with your methods, but I certainly acquit you of bad faith or sinister motives."

"And you?" He turned to me as he had when he had asked me if I believed him to be speaking the truth.

"Again I agree with Lillian," I told him, "although I cannot help but think you caused Mary much needless suffering."

"Mary—and you both—will tell me sometimes that her pain was needless, not needless," he said with such conviction in his voice that I felt my own tenet shaken.

"And now," he went on, with something in his voice which told me the climax of his story was coming, "I must tell you what has brought me here today, the story I have just told your father, the story which, God help me! I shall have to relate to Olga."

Without Phil's seeing her, Lillian quickly turned her thumbs downward, and I closed my eyes twice to let her know I recognized her signal which meant—"This is not so good. We may have to get busy."

"A few minutes ago, I said that after the episode of Mary's masked dancing, with her rescue from Jack Leslie by Noel, and Noel's ever-increasing affection for her, I went quite mad, and have little recollection of what I did during the subsequent year. But I do remember one thing. You know of course that Hugh Grantland sent Leslie out of the country, spared him long imprisonment on condition that he never return to the United States. He paused, and we both nodded a breathless assent.

"Have you never wondered how, in view of Hugh's capabilities, Leslie managed to get back here?"

Brought Leslie Back

"We have, frequently," Lillian said dryly, and at her tone, he sent us a startled, attentive glance.

"You mean you suspected my agency?" he asked with pique and surprise in his tone.

"We did you that honor," she answered, with a flippancy that I knew was studied to ease the situation.

"Your deduction was correct," he said after a pause. "Leslie got word to me from overseas, reminding me of the promise I had given to aid him in any difficulty because he had cleared Noel of the charge which had resulted in my son's expulsion from college. Keeping my given word is a fetish with me," he went on after another pause, as if he were seeking the best words of euphuism he could find. "I never have regretted it before. But I wish I had left Jack Leslie to die in banishment rather than to have brought him back, possibly to destroy my whole life, my new-found hope of happiness!"

DISCIPLINE?

Hollanders' reported lack of "cooperation" with German occupying their land may have inspired recent visit by Anton Mussert (above), Dutch Nazi, to Hitler.

Harding High School Reporters Get Willkie Interview and Autographs

Harold Fralich and Helen Schaffner Mark Up Journalistic Achievement Despite Obstacles.

Before the only autograph campaign stay here was the prize signed by Willkie, the two high school reporters picked up the autographs of Harold Burton of Cleveland, candidate for the U. S. senate, Gov. John W. Bricker and David Ingalls.

A few seconds after the nominee ended his speech they had to get off the train and Fralich was getting worried about the interview. Walking along the track he spied Willkie in his car, glasses on and reading a newspaper. Fralich rapped on the window and asked the nominee if he'd give a statement for the high school paper. Mr. Willkie nodded "yes" and emerged on the platform. By then the train was moving and Fralich hopped on a step to the platform, hung on the railing with one hand and wrote down the answers with the other.

Praises High Schools

Mr. Willkie told the reporter that he regarded high school education one of the finest forms of secondary education in the world. He mentioned that he had taught school and that he had addressed many college and high school groups.

Asked for an autograph, he said he was afraid if he gave one he'd be mobbed, but he took Fralich's pen and paper, turned away from the crowd and wrote his name. Mrs. Willkie, who had come out on the platform with her husband, graciously affixed "Edith Willkie" to the same paper.

Riding the platform was a bit too dangerous for the girl on the assignment but she walked along getting her impressions of the candidate and his wife, and meeting Fralich at the depot. There they ran onto W. N. Heseltine of Delaware, who had been on the

"Uncle Sam" Signs Up Greatest All-Star Team of Athletes for Defense

Big Time and Little Time Players Join in Registration for Draft.

By BILL WHITE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—Uncle Sam signed the greatest "team" of athletes to contracts yesterday in the history of sports — but he doesn't know yet who'll make the starting lineup.

All the way from unsung blocking backs on freshwater colleges to the highest paid stars of the professional firmament, the world of sports answered the selective service draft with enough athletes to make glad the heart of the most pessimistic coach.

New York, of course, gave more athletes to the team that may have to fight the biggest battle of 'em all than any other city. Probably some 10,000 players stood on the sidewalks of New York yesterday in front of little red schoolhouses making sour puns about "I feel a draft, don't you?"

Feller and Derringer
Bobby Feller and "Oom Paul" Derringer, baseball's prize pitchers headed the parade to the polls, but the names of Harry Danning of the Giants, Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox and Hank Greenberg, reputedly the big leagues' best-salaried player, also were put on the white cards.

McLean of the New York pro grid Giants took his whole team to the place of registration and the pros and collegians who on Saturdays and Sundays are big shots—but who were just guys in a line yesterday—followed suit. Whizzer White, Tuffy Leemans, Tommy Harmon, Coach George Munger of Penn and a host of others answered the call.

Golf top-fighters, national champion Lawson Little and P. G. A. kingpin Byron Nelson registered, as did the prize ring's champion Joe Louis, madcap Maxie Baer and light-heavyweight king Billy Conn, who quipped "I'd just as soon fight for Uncle Sam as Uncle Mike (Jacobs)."

Hockey Boys Sign
Hockey's famed "Kitchener Line" of Milt Schmidt, Bob Bauer and Woody Dumart, were among the ice sport's earliest enrollees. The jockeys at Jamaica, including Don Mende, Jimmy Gilbert and others signed up right at the track, where a special booth was erected.

Although most of the athletes were considered highly eligible to be "invited" by Uncle Sam to spend a year as his guest, the professional baseball men seemed less concerned than any others, for most of the major league stars are married, and therefore would probably not be among the first called for duty.

Terrest statement on the whole situation came from non-garrulous Joe Louis, something of an amateur horseman. Asked if he'd like to join the cavalry he sounded the clarion note for the whole world of sports when he replied:

"I ain't choosy."

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—Extra—Mickey Cochrane definitely is interested in that Cleveland job "if they decide to change managers." One Ohio paper said North-western "showed Ohio State more fundamental football in one hour than the Buckeyes had absorbed in 40 practices. Wow!...Where did Pat Coomesky lose his right hand sleep producer? He bounced 'em off old Henry Copper's jaw for ten rounds the other night and didn't dent it... If anyone had an idea Dr. John Bala Sutherland wouldn't do all right in the pro game, let him perish the thought... They're blaming the wrong guy for starting that yarn that this is Tom Slickham's last year at Oklahoma.

THE MARION STAR

Don't Let That Navy Goat Fool You Melissa The Mutt Is The Real Pet

By JOHN GROVER
Associated Press Sports Writer

ANNAPOLIS—Navy's 1940 football wagon is hitched to Melissa's rising star.

She's just a dog, a homely little schnauzer, who looks like something you'd find in a vacuum cleaner bag after a big week-end party. She's got charm, though—the Navy gives her voodoo credit for kicking the Army football team last year after a lean decade.

Melissa came up the hard way. Last year she was strictly nobody, a muddy little mutt who was mascot for the scrub team. Bill

They were sunk under a five-game losing streak with the Army game coming up when Maj. E. E. (Swede) Larson in desperation reached down into second-team ranks for reinforcements.

The graduates from the scrubs set up a holler for Melissa to graduate, too. They swore by their mutt. They told Coach Larson Bill VIII was only a fair weather gal. He just came out to strut on Saturdays. Melissa was regular. She turned out for practice rain or shine, dragging her lucky sweat sock. She was tough—she jumped 60 feet off the roof of the gymnasium and lived to bark it—and adopted the scrub team ritual and every man rubbed her ears for luck before going out on the field. Sparked by a couple of Melissa's ex-scrubs, they tore the Army apart for a 10-0 win, and Melissa just about owned the whole U. S. Navy. They gave her a Navy man's most cherished honor, a blue blanket with the gold N-star that denotes a victory over Army.

Go! Her Uniform
They issued Melissa her sweat sock when the squad got its uniforms this year. She's on the job at every practice, cocking a practiced eye on the fresh beet out for the 1940 varsity.

Melissa, with her own woolen sock, warms up with a Navy griddle.

VIII, the handsome Navy goat, was the varsity mascot and stepped daintily around with his laundered pelt and gilded horns before the big crowds.

Second Fiddle
The scrub team poked did her masochism in virtual oblivion before a handful of relatives, ever-faithful sweethearts and the half dozen other guys who attend "B" squad games because they're free.

But Bill the goat was nobody's bargain in the mascot profession last year. Navy's varsity gridmen advanced in reverse all season.

Bill was just a pretty boy. Thus they argued.

They won their argument when they pointed out the scrubs hadn't lost a game with Melissa doing her stuff, while the varsity was getting set down ignominiously and repeatedly on the back of its lap under Bill's wishy-washy hexing.

The gold braided reticent, and Melissa was allowed to make the trip to the Army-Navy game as Beautiful Bill's understudy.

Bill minced out and took his bows for the newscasts with the Army mule. Melissa just stuck to the boys on the bench. The varsity

That's why things are looking up for 1940 Navy football, Melissa Mrs. Big on the academy campus. The team got its "life" from knowing they've got a Grade-A hexer in their pitching jinx at the other side.

So don't be fooled by Bill VIII this fall. He'll be out there, sure enough, gleaming white and pretty as a sugar cookie. But he's just a front man. The gal behind the guns is Mighty Melissa, mascot-in-fact and sweetheart of this Navy's navy when the footballs fly.

MARIETTA ON ROAD

By The Associated Press

MARIETTA, O., Oct. 17—Marietta college football team leaves today for New Brunswick, N. J., to prepare for Saturday's game with Rutgers, and Coach Duke Hayes, bedridden with gripe for five days, will be defying his doctor if he follows his pledge of last night to "make the trip if I have to do it in an ambulance."

BULLIES LEAD LEAGUE

By The Associated Press

The Columbus Bulls topped the American Professional football league today after a brace of games last night. The Bulls came from behind to score a touchdown and beat the Milwaukee Chiefs, 7 to 3, in the cold and fog at Columbus. In Buffalo, the Boston Bears trimmed the Buffalo Indians, 10 to 0.

Sideline Chatter

Chuck Fenske, king of the millers, hopes to hold that title just one more year and then retire. The former Badger star will take part in the big-time events next winter, possibly next summer, and then begin "unwinding" in minor races with golf and tennis as sideline events.

Johnny Hutchings, rookie Cincinnati pitcher, has a screwball that compares favorably with that thrown by King Carl Hubbell.

Whizzer White, one-time All-America half-back at Colorado and later Rhodes scholar, stood second in his Yale law school class.

Lefty Gomez used a knuckle ball this season for the first time in the majors, but he threw one years ago in the Pacific coast league.

Billy Myers of Cincinnati made the first hit and scored the first run in the first major league night baseball game May 24, 1935.

Arnold Hanger, owner of one of the largest and most successful racing stables in the country, recently got a red hot tip on his way to a track near New York.

The tip, from a cab driver who didn't know Hanger, was on a horse named Harvard Square.

Hanger thanked the driver, went into the track and cheered lustily as Harvard Square won by a length and a half. Hanger owns the horse.

Pug Renner, former Northwestern backfield star, sees Bill DeCorrevont as a star in the making. Renner calls the junior performer "one of the smoothest players I've ever seen on any field. He needs only a little brushing up on his blocking."

Cornell Tops Nation's Grid Teams in Offensive Strength

Statistics Show Big Red Leads in Ground and Attack; Ohio Not in List.

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE, Oct. 17—Statistics today bore out the sports writers' choice of Cornell as the nation's number one football team in this week's Associated Press grid poll.

The Ithacans moved up from second to first place as the country's leading eleven in total offense—gains rushing and passing—figures released by the American Football Statistical Bureau disclosed.

Also, Cornell retained its lead by a wide margin as collegians' top passing team.

In thumping Colgate, 34-0, and Army 45-0, Cornell, in 126 plays gained 357 yards rushing and in the air for a total of 887 yards or an average of 432 yards a game—the figure by which bureau ranks the teams.

The Cornell average for yards per game through the air was phenomenal 253.5, or 61.5 yards ahead of second place Illinois.

Mississippi and Detroit, on statistics available for three games each, tied for second place total offense with marks of 307. Lafayette in three games averaged 389 and Drake, after its loss to Kansas last week, dropped from first to fifth with 277 yards.

Tennessee, Pennsylvania, Creighton and Georgia round the first ten, with figures. Georgia's 28-14 loss to Mississippi last week still unavailable.

Illinois, which also was second last week, gained 192 yards through the air per game, loved by Missouri, 183; N. Y. Quette, a newcomer to the up bracket, 169.5; Indiana, dropped from third, 144.5; Oklahoma, which rose from 141.5, Drake, Texas A. & M., 131.5; Texas followed.

The week's ground-gain leader was Lafayette, which jarred the experts a couple weeks ago by defeating N. Y. In three games Lafayette gained 1,025 yards for a 341.7 average per game. Creighton, first week, dropped to second after losing 32-0 to Tulsa, a mark of 328.

NEW SPEED MARK SET AT STATE FAIRGROUNDS

Jackie Gratian Hits 2:04 1/4 in Pacing Event.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 17—Indian Summer circuit harness racing entries go into the third day of their program at the state fairgrounds today with a new speed mark at which to aim. Jackie Gratian, owned by Homer D. Biery of Butler, Pa., was timed at 2:04 1/4 in the second heat on the $1,000 16 class pace yesterday, fastest mile of the meet thus far.

Mary Volomite, owned by W. Schmidt of Centerville, O., with Dave Sellers up, won the 20 class trot.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, Oct. 18

Uncertainty and conflict may manifest in business affairs on this day, judging by the contradictory influences. Things seem to pull in opposite directions, with very promising and expansive tendencies decisively hampered, obstructed, delayed, drawn to limitation or inertia. This may also be attended by treachery, betrayal, misrepresentation and fraud. Rash or impetuous moves or quarrels will not save the situation, but a feminine intervention might.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves plunged in a year of perplexities and problems with business under contradictory influence, being forcefully drawn between two quite different trends. Expansive and productive prospects may also come up against a stone wall of delays, limitations, obstacles and frustrations. These perhaps due to extravagance, fraud, trickery, litigation, or some phase of misrepresentation or betrayal. Reprisals in quarrels, rashness, impetuosity or want of control but complicate matters. The social, domestic and affectional interests being well aspected may encourage sympathy or financial aid from such sources.

A child born on this day while being gracious, kindly, sympathetic and well-intentioned may have certain antipathy at equal times when need supervenes in its under years. Integrity and truth should be inculcated.
